AMAG is an international publishing house based in Portugal, dedicated to the conceptualisation, development, and careful publication of books and products related to architecture and design. Our work unfolds across three distinct lines: MAGAZINE, BOOKS, and OBJECTS.

Each project is approached as both a challenge and an opportunity to craft unique, meaningful work that resonates beyond the page or product. Guided by a deeply conceptual methodology, we aim to achieve the highest standards of quality in everything we produce. Our publications are distinguished by refined graphic design and a commitment to timeless values, deliberately distancing ourselves from fleeting industry trends.

We believe architecture deserves to be experienced. That's why, beyond our printed works, we develop complementary initiatives that enrich engagement and deepen understanding offering our readers and clients layered experiences that challenge, inform, and inspire.

AMAG MAGAZINE is an international architecture technical magazine published since December 2011 by AMAG PUBLISHER. Collectible and timeless, as rigorous and inspiring live library archive. It is developed through a minimal and taught graphic design as a working tool to promote ageless architecture, featuring not only recognized established practices around the world, but also less known and rising emergent ones.

On March 2023, a new brand image was out to highlight the release of a new series exclusively dedicated to portuguese architecture, AMAG PT, and to simultaneously reinforce the AMAG's maturity and ageless character.

Both series, AMAG (international architecture) and AMAG PT (portuguese architecture), are out quarterly and simultaneously. AMAG PT is granted free of charges to all AMAG subscribers, but it can also be bought as a single title for any customer.
